We are committed to welcoming international students and scholars who bring diversity, new perspectives, and innovative ideas into its classrooms, laboratories, and campus life.

The International Preparatory Program, established by the International College of Beijing Forestry University, offers customized courses to international students who are planning to pursue Bachelor's or Master's degrees at Beijing Forestry University but have not yet reached the HSK4 level.

International College adopts small classes teaching methods, which helps international students get better prepared for further study in a dynamic and supportive university environment. The program is aimed to help lay a solid academic Chinese foundation, cross-cultural communication and life adaptability required for successful entry into further study. It will also help them curb cross-national education barriers and language barriers.

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

This program aims to provide a comprehensive and systematic Chinese learning environment for international students to help them improve their Chinese language proficiency and prepare them for major studies at undergraduate or graduate levels. The preparatory courses include comprehensive Chinese language, listening, speaking, reading and writing skills training, China's national conditions, etc. Meanwhile, the program also provides courses in mathematics, physics, chemistry, and business Chinese for students of different majors, which help students master the basic vocabulary of specialized Chinese language, and ensure that the students can integrate into China's higher education system smoothly.
